

Home and Transport Support for you

The Cornwall branch of the Red Cross, based in Truro, is now able to offer a Home and Transport Support service for residents of Cornwall.

Whether you need help getting to and from an appointment (near or far), support with shopping, collection of prescriptions or some companionship or support to help you through a crisis or period of difficulty we may be able to help you.

Once you have called us and advised us what you need, we will look for a volunteer close by. We will ask you to cover what we reimburse our volunteers, which is 45p per mile. Any additional donation you are able to give us is welcomed - this will support the future of the service, enabling us to keep offering support to people in need. A suggestion regarding that amount is given in the letter you will receive from us following the service or by the coordinator who will make all the arrangements for you.

We also supply mobility and bathing equipment to assist you at a time of crisis and can arrange delivery and collection.

All our volunteers are trained and DBS checked by British Red Cross

To find out more, please call us on 01872 272878

The British Red Cross Society is a registered charity in England and Wales (220949) and Scotland (SCO37738)

